I am opposed to any effort to confiscate my retirement savings in a 401K and IRA in the guise of "protecting us" from outliving our savings or having them erode because of inflation.

This is an unnecessary intervention on the behalf of the government.

It would be better if the good folks in our government would sponsor classes to train the population on how to read stock charts and understand how government intervention in our economy destroys our wealth, and then offer mitigation strategies that we can act on.
